What are EPA Care Workers ?

EPA (Economic Partnership Agreement) which started in 2002. Through this agreement, a system that enable foreigner to acquire the National qualification of a care worker in Japan was formed. A candidate can come to Japan, undergo training while working, and aim for qualification of a care worker. With the said agreement, qualified people from Philippines, Indonesia and Vietnam can come and work permanently in Japan when obtained the qualification of a care worker.

Hi Everyone I'm Charina C. Vendiola-Turnip from La Union. I came here in Japan last May 10, 2010. I took up the National Japanese Licensure Exam and luckily I passed and I am now a Licensed Caregiver. Every field of work of course at first I would say is difficult, but by striving hard to achieve your goals and ambitions in life, I know in the end you will become successful.

Hi ! I'm Sandra Jerusalem Flores, from Caloocan, Philippines. I am a caregiver candidate. It is my second year working and still continuing my study in preparation for the upcoming National Licensure Exam. I took up and passed JLPT N3 last December 2018 and up until now I am enhancing my fluency in Nihongo. Working while studying is not a big problem when you have big Dreams.

Inpatients Floor

Hello Everyone! This is Ayako Miyauchi, an EPA learning supporter. Currently I am supporting two of the EPA, they both are cheerful, have a good sense of humor, and are doing all their best in work. They are treating elderlies and/or handicapped in Japan as their own family. They are able to provide care with a heart, showing respect and polite towards others. They love Japan as much as they love their own country.
